

ABSTRACT

A farm implement convertible between a work position and a transport position is disclosed. In the transport position, a compact package is formed no more than eight feet in width, no more than 14 feet in height and no more than 40 feet in length. Right and left wings connected to the main frame may be raised by pushing articulated arms a short distance to fold the wings above the main frame